In the whole of Spain, on Saturday, there were reported 3,320 new cases of cholera and 1,461 deaths from that disease. The military governor of Granada has succumbed to the pestilence. Cholera is raging with great mortality in the convict settlement of Carthagena.

Ex-President Arthur, more grayed as to beard than hair, and looking taller, because not so stout as formerly, attracts much attention as he nonchalantly walks about New York. His face lost its earnest expression in his fishing excursions, and is browned now than a herring.

The Jews of New York City have started subscriptions, already amounting to $10,000, for the erection in Central park of a monument to the late Sir Moses Montefiore, the famous London philanthropist. The memory of one who has done so much for poor humanity deserves to be perpetuated.

About 200 dairymen met at Plymouth, Wis., Saturday, to form a cheese pool to increase the price of cheese by combination and direct dealing with exporters. A plan was agreed upon to be submitted to the patrons of the different factories. Reports are to be made at an adjourned meeting to be held at Plymouth, August 15th.

The criticisms of the naval advisory board upon the report of the Dolphin board of examiners, together with the reply of the latter, have been made public by Secretary Whitney. The advisory board insists that the Dolphin is exceptionally strong structurally, and capable of the full rate of sea speed stipulated for, and holds that the result attained in its construction is one "for congratulation, not condemnation."

During the past week, the mortality among infants in the large cities of the country, from the effects of the hot weather, was very great, and an unusual number of deaths of adults from sun stroke were reported. The very sudden change to the lower temperature now prevalent, doubtless wrought many disorders.

It is said that Mrs. Sartoris, General Grant's only daughter, will make a short visit to England this fall, and will then come back to the country with her children for the purpose of educating and bringing them up as Americans. It was the wish of General Grant that the children should be so educated. Beside this Mrs. Sartoris is anxious to be with her mother for some time at least. Mrs. Grant wishes to have her children about her.

A prominent state department official at Washington says the reorganization of the consular service will be completed about January next. There is said to be an increased inclination among business men to enter the South American markets. Consults upon entering new territory will be expected to make such reports of the resources of the country as will be valuable to business men in deciding upon trading with those states. Some severe comets are being made upon consuls in South America and Central America. About 200 consular posts yet remain to be filled. The majority of these are small agencies, paying salaries or fees amounting to not more than $1,000 each.

McLain has been appointed to take charge of the station, and Professor Riley has instructed him to pay particular attention to the following subjects: To secure the introduction and domestication of such races of bees as are reported to possess desirable traits and characteristics; to test the claims of such races of bees as to excellence, and to prove by experiments their value to the agriculturists of the United States and their adaptation to this climate and honey-producing flora; to make experiments in the methods of artificial fertilization, also to test the various methods of preparing bees for winter; to gather statistics concerning the bee-keeping industry in the United States; to make experiments with and observations concerning varieties of honey-producing plants for bees; to study the true cause or causes of diseases yet imperfectly understood, and to obtain incontestable results by intelligent experiments upon scientific methods as to the capacity of bees, under exceptional circumstances, to injure fruit—i. e., to set at rest the over-discussed question of bees vs. fruit.

SWEEP THE DECKS.

NARROW ESCAPE OF A STEAMER ON THE DELAWARE.

Great destruction of property in Pennsylvania—A beautiful but fearful phenomenon—Several lives lost—General elemental havoc.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 4.—About 8:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the eastern shore of the Delaware river, in the neighborhood of Gloucester, N. J., was struck by a cyclone. The windstorms struck up the Catons shore to a short distance this side of Burlington, and, then, crossing the river, proceeded on to New Jersey through the town of Pennsville.

In a night witnessed from the business houses on Delaware avenue was pronounced one of the most terrific ever seen in this part of the country.

A dense, howling, hooded cloud, like a twisting column of smoke, rose into the sky as though discharged from the water, and flying along in a northwesterly course carried everything down before it.

The excursion steamer Major Royall, on her way down the river with about 100 passengers, was struck by the cyclone just off Greenwich Point, and was a total wreck.

The steamer, coming from the southwest, struck her on the portside.

She careered heavily, and almost went on her beam ends. The passengers were thrown to the deck, and a terrible scene of confusion ensued. The portable cabin was torn to pieces, and the flying timbers struck men and women down, and many were severely injured. Capt. Eugene Royall and Pilot Emory Townsend were in the pilot house, and when the full force of the cyclone struck it, Capt. Royall was picked up by the tag James, but Pilot Townsend was drowned.

William Glassman of Salem, N. J., a passenger on the boat, was struck on the head by a piece of timber and fatally injured.

Andrew Arthur, another passenger, was blown from the upper to the lower deck, and badly cut and bruised about the head.

The Royall was towed to the wharf at the foot of Arab street, where she now lies nearly a sunken bulk. The pilot house, cabin roof, sunshades, and everything movable on board the boat was blown overboard.

The cyclone struck three buildings of the Pennsylvania salt works, at Greenwich Point, uprooting and otherwise badly damaging them, and three more were badly injured.

The steamer Peerless, of the Gloucester ferry, was struck, and a part of her upper decks carried away, but no one was injured.

In Camden, on the Jersey side, and at Gloucester, on the northeastern and southeastern sides of the river, the damage done by the cyclone is very great.

It is estimated that 1,000 houses in Camden and 800 in Gloucester were damaged or badly damaged.

The damage to property cannot be estimated, but will probably reach $1,000,000. Five persons have been reported killed and about 100 injured, a number of whom cannot be recovered.

Great destruction of property.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 4.—It is estimated that over $75,000 damage was done by the storm of Sunday and Monday in the counties of Lancaster, Lancaster, and York.
